Reflection on Life, Ignorance, and Human Contribution

There is ignorance in how we live, behave, and treat people at times, as though we can control what happens when we close our eyes.

For me, nobody has ever lived a life totally free from ignorance at all points.

Who appears beautiful today, time will fade. The young, time will age; the old, time will kill.

Drawing from these, I put forward the opinion that the word “loner” should not be mentioned when life is being discussed.

More so, live and leave a footprint on earth and in the hearts of others. Do not just exist; do not live for yourself alone.

My name is Hills Alex Oluchi, and I believe in contributing positively to the growth of others.
